Kukkia 101 new style cafe is now open!

Kukkia 101 has just opened a new style cafe at the back of their stylish open-plan shop in Osaka, Japan. This fun refreshment area was first opened in March of 2015. New for 2016 is a kid-friendly menu conceived by Ritsuko Fuji who is a mother herself and also works for Kukkia. You can now order special house-shaped pancakes inspired by Oekaki House one of their best-selling toys- a magnetic drawing board in the shape of a house. The pancake versions come with a chocolate filled 'pen' for decorating your pancake. Kids will have so much fun creating their own personal edible treats. There is also a variety of hot and cold drinks including gourmet drip coffee and delicious hot chocolate to warm you up during the cold winter months.

close-up> Kukkia' s creative director : Kaz Shiomi Kukkia

Kaz started Kukkia 7 years ago in this very room. "I have no idea how we fit into this small room" she says of the first office space in the building where Kukkia now occupies four floors including the ground floor shop 101/ little cafe space.

"We now do collaborations with big names such as Bonpoint, Air France and Lanvin but we started out very small- just two of us. I am very proud of how much we have grown over the years and look forward to the future and perhaps an even bigger Kukkia! Maybe we will have to take over the entire building" , she jokes...

Kaz is always happily busy for Kukkia but needs a little down time. In her free time she enjoys relaxing with her pet rabbit mochi who has the official title: Kukkia healing officer :). He is a big hit at the shop too when he comes to visit and the inspiration for her latest cool creation- Usagi, which means 'rabbit' in Japanese. She also really enjoys fashion and interior design which is evident from her beautiful apartment. It has many cool design objets especially Scandinavian classics. She says that a happy home equals a happy heart which helps her to come up with more ideas for her super imaginative toys. (K.T)
