Let's call a good friend
 Insert the coin and then dial the number by turning all the way around.
 Ring ring, ring ring....
 Hello?
 Can you hear me?
 Let's have a great chat on the telephone!

telephone

Phone play is what children have always enjoyed throughout the years...
 A nostalgic retro form that is also a cute interior decorative item.
 Insert the included coin and turn the dial to talk. When it is over and the handset is reset, a bell sounds and magically, your change is returned.

You could call a friend or do you want to call a store or restaurant?
 The world of our children's imagination will be extra fun with this telephone toy.

A modern take on traditional Japanese HINA dolls

--- kikoandgg collaboration with Tokunaga Koinobori

March 3rd is an important day for little girls in Japan, when the Hina Matsuri or Girl's Festival is celebrated.

One of THE most important parts of the celebration is setting up a special Hina-doll display in your home.

When Japan's famed traditional doll maker Tokunaga Koinobori decided to make a new line of modern Hina Dolls, - they asked kikoandgg Japan to both design and produce a custom piece, under their more modern brand "Puca".

The end-result is a modern-minimalist heirloom set, to be passed down from one generation to the next.

We know we're a bit biased, but aren't they so kawaii ??!

Baby has a big dream of a Round the World trip...

--- Collaboration with Air France

So far kiko+ has collaborated with Air France on a pull back jet & mini jet. Next came Air France x gg* Step to the World match-the-flags game. These were so popular we have teamed up with them again! The fourth collaboration is the perfect baby gift; a mobile.

How about seeing such a cute mobile above your baby's cot? A flying Arc de Triomphe and the iconic Eiffel Tower. Behind the wings of the plane you can find the kiko+ logo. Baby's perfect day dream is catching an Air France plane and travelling to Paris...mais oui!
